REFLECTION BY: St Beuno's Outreach

Wherever I have chosen to pray, I can be confident that the presence of the Lord around and within me makes it a holy place. I sit quietly and become still, allowing his loving gaze to rest upon me. How is my heart as I come to prayer today? I entrust myself into the Lord's care, knowing that he understands how I'm feeling.

When ready, I ask the Holy Spirit to guide my prayer. I turn to this beautiful psalm that Jesus would have prayed many times. I read it several times (aloud if I can), taking it very slowly, a verse at a time.

I ponder the words, noticing any feelings, thoughts or images that arise. I stay with any that particularly touch me, allowing them to soak in. Thankful for this opportunity for the Lord to 'revive my soul', I share freely with Jesus what is going on in my heart now.

The psalm ends with a prayer seeking forgiveness. Jesus himself knows all my shortcomings. Trusting in God's unconditional love and forgiveness, I ask Jesus to show me my 'hidden faults and presumptions', so that I can be more open to God's love and wisdom. Our Father

As I start to become still, I focus on the rhythm of my breathing. I wait for my body to relax and my thoughts to slow down. Then I read and reread the Gospel slowly. In my mind's eye I may like to place myself in the scene. What am I sensing as I listen to John speak? Maybe jealousy, indignation, pride, anger, elitism, intolerance . . . ?

Jesus warns his disciples not to judge, but to accept that God can act through whomever God chooses. Using the example of a simple kindness, Jesus teaches his disciples to be inclusive and to support others. I ponder reflectively. Have I always shown such grace and generosity?

Jesus strongly advises his disciples to look to themselves. They (and we) are called to act appropriately in his name, to be good witnesses to Christ's love. Is there something that gets between myself and God that I need to let go of? ... a habit, an attitude, an action . . . ? Am I using all I've received to the full?

Expressing both thanks and sorrow, I share my thoughts, feelings and desires with Jesus. I close slowly with a 'Glory be.
